A Surprise.

On Wednesday of last week Mr. L. G. Heathman and Miss Minnie Gilson took the noon train to Calgary, were quietly married, returning on Thursday morning. The bride has grown from girlhood in this community, and is a favorite with all who know her. We wish the happy couple happiness and prosperity in their new life.

Cheaper Postage to our Soldiers at the Front.

Arrangements have been made whereby the ordinary rate of two cents per ounce applicable to all letters addressed to British and Canadian Troops on the continent. The rate on ordinary letters from Canada for the continent is five cents for the first ounce, and three cents for each subsequent ounce, so that this extension of the two cent an ounce rate to letters addressed to our soldiers on the continent, is a decided reduction in favour of correspondence going to the soldiers.

Here and There.

Paw was a bit awkward to get out last Thursday night, but I told him that I would not let him go to the Britishers' Dinner if he did not take me to the Tea Carnival, so of course he all good Canadian daughters, I got my own way. Naturally Paw enjoyed himself immensely when he got there, and we both decided it was the best show we had ever seen in this burg, it was just great. I should think about 50 were there in costume, and nearly 400 looking on (right here I should like to give the managers a tip, why not have the fence a little higher so as to prevent the cheap eye dodging the 25c. entrance fee). The costumes were all great, glad I had not to be one of the judges. The prize winners were: Mrs. Manning, query, was her costume a fancy or a comic one? Mrs. E. S. McIlroy, Miss Nicholson, Geo. Patmore, F. Landymore, E. Conrad, Esther Mossop, E. Colling, Bob Smart.

Next night Paw had the time of his life, of course the shame of it was that I could not go, but just wait until I get spliced, I guess my old man won't go without me, vote or no vote. Well, I cannot tell you much about it, as Paw ain't been very well since that night, I don't quite know what's the matter, but he was decidedly rattled when I enquired about it.

However, I found out that The Farmer presided at one end of the table and the Warrior at the other. There were about 25 present; my 1 hear The Farmer made a speech near the end of the evening that would make the Speaker and the Reeve green with envy. Of course, Paw says it was only fair to say that The Farmer got many suggestions and hints from Sunny Jim, who supported him on one side. Other Speeches were given by the Master, the Warrior, Sunny Jim and Dr. Bill. I cannot make out quite if Tosh made a speech or just told funny tales, whichever it was it must have been funny and rather naggy too I guess, for Paw just laughs and won't tell me. Altogether, I understood it was a nice quiet, sociable and most enjoyable evening.

I hear that Anderson has traded his place to C. Stafford. Anything doing Wilson.

I regret to hear that Mrs. F. Purvis has been ill with grippe, but she is now making good progress towards recovery. I didn't go to the Women's Institute meeting at Mrs. Boyles last Saturday, but I heard it was a great success.

There was a vestry meeting at the Church of the Ascension after service on Sunday morning. R. S. Peacock and I. Lewis were elected Church Wardens, Messrs. Bray, McLeod, Manning, Birch, Edwards, Mossop and Lovish were elected as Vestrymen.

Was glad to hear that the Churches were very well attended at all services. Quite a revival.

Paw makes a suggestion to the City Fathers that they should put a corrugated iron fence all round the road side of Mossop's Park. He says it must always be an unsightly blot on the entrance to the town, so why not try and hide it?

The Rev. J. Dingle batched with Mr. Edwards last week end. The nurse being summoned out of Church during the morning service.

What is the matter with the English Church, ain't there men enough to put up the dollars to pay for a resident parson, let the new vestry get a move on and see how much money they can get guaranteed for the stipend, this should not be impossible, especially if some of the Country people would get interested too.

Barn Burned.

The barn on the Dick Ontkes farm about two miles south-west of town, was burned to the ground on Wednesday morning of this week.

Mr. Demers, the tenant on the farm was away from home at the time. Mrs. Demers managed to save some harness and several other things including a calf. The fire being noticed by A. J. Stones baling crew, who were baling hay close by. They rushed to the place and made every effort to save the building but of no avail. There was no stock in the building. Insurance unknown.

Britishers' Smoker.

The second annual gathering of the local Old Country Britishers took place at the Alberta Hotel, on Friday evening last. Upwards of thirty sat down to a cold collation, which was served in excellent style by the hotel staff. After all present had satisfied the cravings of the inner man, the tables were cleared. Mr. Scholefield occupied the chair and Capt. Robinson presided as vice-chairman. The first toast "The King," was responded to with those present singing "God Save The King." Mr. Manning who proposed the next toast "Canada and the Empire" made pithy address on the great loyalty that had been shown by the empire during the present struggle. Capt. Robinson proposed the "Army, Navy and Auxiliary Forces," to which Mr. Birch and Mr. Hunter responded. "The Ladies" was left in charge of Mr. Cawander, who did them honour, this being responded to by Dr. Prior and W. Stock. The following contributed to the evening's enjoyment, by song, recitation, or story: Mr. J. Levisohn, who sang a score or so; Jack Heron, who sang till he was hoarse;

Mr. Scholefield kept the company alive with his patriotic songs; then Dr. Bill helped to pass the time, R. Landsburg, Messrs. McIntosh and Cawander told funny stories. Mr. Kay of Calgary, was the accompanist. Mr. Halliday, cornet, and S. Willis, violin; put in an appearance during the evening and assisted by the pianist gave several selections. Mr. Halliday made a few remarks on the great Country to the south of us, to which Mr. Scholefield replied in a rousing and spirited speech in praise of that great nation. The evening's proceedings were brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem and "Auld Lang Syne." A surplus of $21.50 was realized which will go towards the Red Cross Funds.

NOTICE.

Pig Skin Chasers Join Army

Professional Football Players Now Rallying to the Colors

Professional British football players from all parts of the country have at last made a strong rally to the colors and will go on active service when the soccer season is ended. A battalion of players has been formed and permission given by Lord Kitchener to all professional players joining who are under contract for time or of the season.

All expenses for travelling from their training clubs to the war day games will be paid by their clubs. That they might be induced to join at once is arranged by the fact that the time they are attended and this is in addition to the salaries received from their clubs.

It was arranged at first to form the battalion from the London professionals only, but at a meeting recently held so many of the country teams were represented that it was decided to receive applications from professionals throughout England. Mr. Joynt-Smith, M.P., president of the Football Association, announced an immense enthusiasm that the battalion would be attended by the Middlesex regiment, who are well known as "The Die Hards" and will be at the front within a few months.

At the close of the meeting nearly one hundred professionals stepped forward to enlist and after being sworn in were marched off amid enthusiastic scenes to pass their medical examination. This showing was considered a splendid answer to the attacks that lately have been made on the professional player.

Clapton Orient, the second division club, made the best response at the meeting, no fewer than ten of their regular league team volunteering, but with every club in the country giving valuable assistance in obtaining recruits the battalion will be completed speedily and ready to give an account of itself worthy of English soccer.

A Boston merchant tells of an old grocer who was asked to "lick" an article as one would care to meet. "One day," says the Bostonian, "I stopped before his shop and looked curiously at a long line of barrels of apples, some marked with an 'A' and some with a 'Z'."

"What is the meaning of these markings?" I asked. The barrels seem to contain the same kind of apples."

"They are the same kind, son," the old gentleman replied, "but some customers want a barrel opened at the top and some at the bottom."

With so thorough a preparation at hand as Miller's Worm Powders the mother who allows her children to suffer from the ravages of worms is unwise and culpably careless. A child subjected to the attacks of worms is always unwell and will be stunted in its growth. It is a merciful act to rid it of these destructive parasites, especially when it can be done without difficulty.

I'm not at home to that gentleman, Jane, declared the belle.

"You haven't a card yet," protested mother. You don't know who it is."

"True; but it isn't the machine I am waiting for. I can tell by the look."

Strongly Fortified

Work of "Digging In" Has Been Completed

The army of excavators, who, early in September, began to "dig Paris in" when a German siege was believed to have completed their work.

The concentration of workers alone sent 5,000 volunteers who provided their own digging tools, and were recompensed only by a ration of food. Thousands of Belgian refugees hurried from their land, have also assisted in the work.

The city now lies in the centre of an entrenched position whose circumference is nearly 20 miles. This is surrounded by trenches thrown up by covered in with logs and turf through which scap holes have been left for rifle fire. Out beyond these are rifle pits, and barbed wire entanglements placed in all positions where an attack might originate.

Still other precautions have been taken in the form of the advance line of trenches by the digging of deep ditches whose existence has been hidden by a light covering of branches of earth making them invisible to the enemy's observation. Artillery and forming veritable holes into which an attacking force might fall, prey to the defender's machine guns and rifles.

The approaches to the trenches from the rear consist of subterranean galleries which permit the relief to take place without any exposure of the men.

All along this front posts of observation have been established, each of which is constantly occupied at least by three men provided with powerful light batteries and in direct telephonic communication with headquarters.

The location of which are known only to the headquarters staff and to the men who serve the guns, and the men who are buried in the earth, only their muzzles protruding. For the benefit of the enemy's observation, the most important objects in the front have been hidden.

Behind the lines of trenches near a light railroad line for the purpose of bringing up ammunition and food, and also, if necessary, reinforcements of men to any point which might be needed. Further provisions for the conveyance of reinforcements is at hand in the large number of automobiles of all kinds which can make the journey speedily from any point to another, carrying groups of armed men.

The existing forts also have been strengthened but now only serve as supporting points and depots for the bodies of troops resting from their trench duty.

Danger in Fly Poison

A Movement on Foot to Prohibit Their Manufacture

Because of the large and increasing number of cases where children have been poisoned by various fly poisons, a determined effort is being made by a number of medical associations and other sources interested in the health of children to prohibit the manufacture and sale of such products.

In less than three months during the summer of 1913 forty-seven cases of children being poisoned were reported in a newspaper of the highest states. Of these, quite a number proved fatal and many others were expected to die.

The danger to children in the use of fly poisons lies in the fact that they are all of them contain arsenic in a sufficient quantity to cause death or serious illness, even when but a little of the preparation is swallowed by the child.

Children are particularly attracted to fly poisons because of the fact that they are so much like candy with the poison in order to attract the flies. There were undoubtedly a great many cases of children being poisoned in this way which did not come to public attention, especially because of the fact that the symptoms of arsenical poisoning in children are almost identical with the symptoms of cholera infantum. This deadly infantile disease prevails during the fly season and the doctors state that it is practically impossible to determine whether death was caused by cholera infantum or fly poison, unless the children are actually seen drinking or sucking the poison.

The authorities in South Africa have already taken steps to regulate and ultimately eliminate the sale of fly poisons, and it is hoped by the opponents of these preparations to secure prohibitory legislation in the United States at an early date.

In the meantime, parents having small children are particularly cautioned against the use of fly poisons of any kind in locations where it is within reach of the children.

Two young attorneys were wrangling for a long time before Judge Knox of Virginia gave a ruling. His honor rendered his decision, and the sprig who had lost impudently remarked:

"Your honor, there is a growing opinion that all the fools are not dead yet."

"Certainly," answered the court, "but I'm troubled good heartedly agree with you, Mr. B., and congratulate you upon your healthy appearance."

Clever Boy
She had shown him the family photo album, as was her custom, when he spoke up and said:

"You know some people think an album is old fashioned, but there are features I greatly admire in this one."

"And what are they?" she asked.

"Yours."

He clinched her on the spot.

House of Colored Blinds

German Spy Who Turned Front into a Signaling Board

A member of the Royal Naval Flying Wing, who has just returned from the front, tells a characteristic story of the trick of a German spy on the Belgian coast. "There was a house some way up the coast," he says, "which our commander suspected. One night we set out to reconnoitre. We found the house was nothing more than a signalling-board. Going up to it, we knocked politely at the door with the butt of our rifles.

"As the occupants were too busy to 'serve visitors' we burnt the door open, and with our captain leading the way with cocked revolver we rushed upstairs into the front room. There we caught the whole lot by surprise, sitting in the centre of the room was a woman with a telephone. She had a bunch of speaking tubes to each window of the house at each of which a girl with a lamp switch in her hands."

Crippled with Rheumatism

And Skeptical After Trying Many Medicines—Dr. Chase's Kidney Pills

When the kidneys fail to purify the blood the poisons left in the system cause pain and suffering such as have crippled me with rheumatism. Read how this skeptic was cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney Pills.

Mr. P. W. Brown, Kingsbury, Que., writes: "I have been completely cured of my rheumatism by using Dr. Chase's Kidney Pills. I was a cripple from rheumatism. I was skeptical as he said that he had cured many cases of rheumatism. I finally he consented to try them, and to his surprise was greatly benefited in the first week, and the pains left his legs until he was no longer a cripple. He could walk without pain or difficulty. Dr. Chase's Kidney Pills have worked wonders in this place, and we are now recommending them to all. Dr. Chase's Kidney Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, 5 for $1.00; sent by mail to J. C. Edmunds & Co., Limited, Toronto.

MORE DAYLIGHT

Daylight Saving Plan Makes Great Headway

The daylight saving scheme, the theory of which has met with general approval appears to have alienated objections upon the ground that it is an unjust, wherever it has actually been tried, that the movement gains momentum of spreading and of coming into general operation, before many years have elapsed.

The latest influential body to declare itself in favor of the enactment of the bill is the Chicago Chamber of Commerce. The executive of the organization is consisting of twenty-four of the foremost business men of Chicago recently voted unanimously in favor of the scheme and has followed that step by the inauguration of a campaign to promote the adoption of a daylight saving measure in all the states of the Union.

Small but Potent—Farnelle's Vegetable Pills are the fact that they are effective. Their fine qualities as a corrector of stomach troubles are known to thousands of people who can attest to their efficacy. They are constant demand everywhere by those who know what a safe and simple remedy they are. They need no introduction to those acquainted with them, but to those who may not know them they are presented as a preparation on the market for disorders of the stomach.

Canada's Imports of Eggs

Canada, an agricultural country, continues to import eggs in large quantities. During 1914, up to November 20, 127,619 dozens were brought in to the country and during the past five years over 25,000,000 dozens have been imported. Following are import figures for the five years:

Year	Dozens
1910	88,078
1911	123,240,111
1912	127,619
1913	127,619
1914	127,619

The increase in imports has been steady, showing that production in Canada is not keeping pace with the steadily increasing domestic demands. Surely there is a place for more poultry in Canada.

Minard's Liniment Cures Garget in Cows

Willie was doing penance in the corner. Presently he thought aloud piously.

"I can help it if I'm not perfect," he sighed. "I never heard of but one perfect boy, anyway."

"Who was that?" asked his mother, thinking to point a moral.

"A boy named Alice, she was a perfect boy, she was a perfect boy."

"My dear, your friend is a perfect ass," said his mother.

"Housewife, papa! None of us are perfect."

Story of Test Under Fire

Snipers Keep up Work All the Time With Artillery Duels at

Under what picturesque circumstances men often move forward to the firing line in the trenches. A London artist, a member of the H. O. H. artillery corps, who, with the sensitive eye of his craft, tells of his impressions with more than ordinary vividness, but war, presumably, written somewhere in Belgium.

"After doing work all over one country," he writes, "we find ourselves in another, with every prospect of having a hot time, which we have all been praying for. At the last place but two we were digging a second line of trenches, and came in for some very hot fire. The next day they caught us as we went to dig in slightly more advanced trenches, and we lay in a small ditch for about three hours with shell and rifle bullets jumping about our heads and sticking leaves off the stunted willow trees in our ditch.

"The night before last we left about 5. It was quite pitch black and intensely cold, and snow lay heavily everywhere on fields, rocks and trees as we marched silently through the village and out into the open. We had a wonderful avenue of trees, like the H. O. H. artillery corps, a member of the H. O. H. artillery corps, who, with the sensitive eye of his craft, tells of his impressions with more than ordinary vividness, but war, presumably, written somewhere in Belgium.

"We halt telling and move on again, and I, to remind us of the night in not so good a way, as she is come bursting through the air. One bursts quite close, setting a round house in a fire. The next day they caught us as we went to dig in slightly more advanced trenches, and we lay in a small ditch for about three hours with shell and rifle bullets jumping about our heads and sticking leaves off the stunted willow trees in our ditch.

"One of my great fear a suffocation, and to stagger later on the ground and find myself under the earth, head touching knees and feet above, in black darkness, and the day where one is, and feeling caught in on every side, is dreadful to me. We go on, each section all about 100 yds. in the morning, with slight sniping to remind one of the night in not so good a way, as she is come bursting through the air. One bursts quite close, setting a round house in a fire. The next day they caught us as we went to dig in slightly more advanced trenches, and we lay in a small ditch for about three hours with shell and rifle bullets jumping about our heads and sticking leaves off the stunted willow trees in our ditch.

"There are five of us in our trench. The dawn comes up slowly, and we can see what is in front of us. We are evidently on a hill, and the day where one is, and feeling caught in on every side, is dreadful to me. We go on, each section all about 100 yds. in the morning, with slight sniping to remind one of the night in not so good a way, as she is come bursting through the air. One bursts quite close, setting a round house in a fire. The next day they caught us as we went to dig in slightly more advanced trenches, and we lay in a small ditch for about three hours with shell and rifle bullets jumping about our heads and sticking leaves off the stunted willow trees in our ditch.

"We are all crouched down. Clouds of black, oily smoke, smoke, showers of earth and stones, mangle wrecks and pieces of shell come flying into the trenches. One man finds a large piece of shell in his overcoat pocket. No one was hurt of our lot. On our left the regiment had four killed and several wounded. This is being under fire property. They are glad they have stopped and given us a rest. Not so the snipers, who keep it up all day.

"Night observation is very nerve racking. Trees move about, showing black against the snow, and the sky is very cloudy. All around look him man, menacing and advancing. There comes a tremendous explosion, and on our left. We are relieved just before dawn, and we creep back here with the first light. We are glad to have got through our really first test of endurance all right."

Couldn't They Go Him?
A well known English naval dignitary has a beautiful character, young, energetic, with no resources but his salary, told of his impressions with more than ordinary vividness, but war, presumably, written somewhere in Belgium.

Well, admit what you say a true. But when you say you were only a midshipman, with even a smaller salary than mine. How did you get along? asked the old gentleman. He thought he had made a most diplomatic defence.

But not so. The crafty old seadog (thundered for him).

I lived on my father-in-law for the first ten years; but I'll be hanged if you are going to do it!

"You are not the boy who usually caddles for me?"

"No, sir. I tossed up 'win' for 'you'."

"And you won?"

"No, I lost."

Defending Canaan

Germans Are Being Driven Out of the Land Famous in Olden Times

By salting up the Gulf of Akaba and destroying the fort, batteries and stores, H. M. S. Minerva has struck the first blow against the German operations in Syria.

The Gulf of Akaba, which extends far into the Red Sea, is of considerable strategic importance, and it was a clever move on the part of Great Britain to despatch the cruiser there.

It will be remembered that in a communique published in these columns, says the "Calcutta Englishman," the Viceroy mentioned that the German had despatched a number of mines to Akaba with the object of mining the gulf and preventing warships from operating on the flank of the force detailed to clear Egypt through Syria.

It does not appear whether the plan has been abandoned yet, but it may be hoped that the prompt appearance of the Minerva will enable the British to clear the gulf of all suspicious craft likely to be engaged in the laying of such deadly instruments. The suggestion of the gulf is sufficiently dangerous, and sudden squalls, and it is therefore added submarine mines naval operations of any kind.

The town of Akaba that part of Solomon's fleet sailed to the mysterious land of Opar, and in later times it was the great emporium of Palestine and the emporium of the East. The pilgrims who go to Mecca realized that the sea route was preferable to the long, weary journey by land.

One of the towns they frequented on the way to the sacred place of Islam, and Turkey then recognized the importance of the town, and it was the port with the Sinai Peninsula, as it is now.

It is not surprising that when the Minerva arrived on the scene it found the town occupied by a German officer. A railway connects the port with Damascus and Beirut.

The Viceroy's communique mentioned a number of transports as having been collected; but these were evidently not at Akaba, as the day would scarcely venture to send troops in the Mediterranean from Beirut or other Turkish ports to the Sinai Peninsula.

A German Cave Lined with Loot

Robbed a French Chateau, and Decorated Cave with the Spoils

The following interesting letter, purporting to be from a German captain at the front in France to his children, tells of the loot which he has secured.

"My children: I was very pleased with your little letters, so I will answer them. Ringel (a dog) sits beside me, and looks over my shoulder to see that everything is correct as I describe it."

"I have now a room in the trenches which is almost as big as my room at home, but divided into a bedroom and a dining room. It is so high that I can stand upright in it. You must know it is in the middle of a thick wood and deep down in the earth like a real cave."

Probable Price of Peace Terms

Forecast of Conditions That the Allies Wish to Exact When War is

One of the greatest military authorities in England, and a member of the staff of the War Office, in the London Magazine a forecast of what the Allies will demand as the price of peace. Since it is in line with all other forecasts that we have read, it is interesting as showing that in the British empire at least there is practical unanimity as to the terms that will be offered the item that has provoked most discussion, and that is in most doubt, is the fate of the Kaiser.

There is a universal belief that he is chiefly responsible for the war, and probably the German people know better than anyone else who rules their country, in victory the greatest honor will be accorded to the Kaiser, and defeat the deepest disgrace will be his. The writer of the Century article says that the Kaiser will be looked upon after the war as the family of Napoleon III, when the French nation was overwhelmed by the military disaster of 1870. Should the Kaiser survive all vicissitudes the probability seems that he and his family will be exiled from the British empire at least there is practical unanimity as to the terms that will be offered the item that has provoked most discussion, and that is in most doubt, is the fate of the Kaiser.

German Cruisers Were Outwitted

Steamer Ortega Seizes Navigators' Boat, and Is Captured

No more thrilling story of British seamanship has been told since the capture of the Ortega, which was communicated by publication by the Admiralty. The story is a remarkable exploit by which the Pacific Steam Navigation Company's steamer Ortega escaped from a German cruiser.

A HAPPY WEDDING.

Miss Evans, of Hamilton, becomes the bride of
G. A. C. Dougan.

A pretty wedding was solemnized at five o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 10, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Evans, Ann St., when Mr. Evans' sister, Mary Francis Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Evans, of Hamilton, Ont., became the happy bride of George Archibald Carlisle Dougan, son of the late Dr. William Dougan, and nephew of Lt.-Col. George Carlisle.

The bride, who was unattended, was married in her travelling suit of brown green broadcloth, with coral and revers of beaver, and hat to match of velvet of the same shade, with shaded plumes. They made a handsome couple as they stood before the clergyman plighting their troth. Dr. D. B. Russell, of Hamilton, conducted the ceremony and Miss Klath Cutt, of Hamilton, played the wedding march. Rev. L. W. B. Broughall assisted Mr. Russell.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Dougan took the evening train for New York and other eastern cities. They will be back on Tuesday next, when a reception will be held at the Carlisle home, corner of Queen and Church streets.

Guests were present from New York, Chicago, Buffalo, Hamilton, and St. Catharines.

Mr. and Mrs. Dougan will take up their residence at Crossfield, Alberta. They will be followed by the best wishes of hosts of friends for a long and happy wedded life.—St. Catharines Standard.

Hockey Notes.

Owing to some oversight, the result of the hockey match between the Crossfield Scrubs and Western Savages, played on January 31st, was not published.

The result of the game was a two to one score, in favour of the Savages; this game makes the Savages champions of the Crossfield district, having played four games, winning two and playing two to a draw.

The Savages have a very promising player, none of them having ever played before, outside school teams. They should try to hang together, and no doubt they will develop a team fast enough to play any of the neighboring towns.

In conversation with the Hon. Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agriculture, while in Edmonton, the reason he took the bounty of coyotes was that although there was about $25,000 a year going out for bounty, but the coyotes did not seem to get less, and he decided the money could be put to better advantage.

He said he kept bells on his sheep and they were not bothered, others say the same, some farmers say they will be taken with bells on, a few might be tried and it will be a fair success they are profitable.

He said in answer to my inquiry that that the Professor at the School of Agriculture at Olds would arrange to have Professors of Agronomy, and give addresses on rotation and diversification of crops and animal husbandry.

They would come to our farms in automobiles after the school season is over and talk with us on the above subjects if we wished it.
